

English in Ireland

Learn English where it's spoken! In Ireland, the „friendly green“ island in the Atlantic, off the coasts of Great Britain and only about 4 hours flight time away.

There are numerous opportunities to attend language courses and improve your own English considerably. In your free time, you are also surrounded by English-speaking people and can apply what you have learned right away!

The following procedure is typical: The language course takes place from Monday to Friday, depending on the booked scope in the morning or afternoon or during the day.

Dublin - the ideal place

Dublin is one of the friendliest capitals in Europe. With around 600,000 inhabitants, Dublin is the metropolis of Ireland and at the same time still manageable, and all parts can be reached in a reasonable time. The River Liffey, which flows into the Atlantic Ocean here, divides the city into a northern part („Northside“) and a southern part („Southside“). In the city centre, there are numerous bridges over the River Liffey; here you will find museums, universities, parks, department stores and of course many cafes, restaurants and pubs. The residential areas are more likely to be found outside the city centre in the middle and outer districts of Dublin.

The lessons last 50 minutes.

Courses are available for various levels from beginners, advanced to highly advanced.

Age: from 18
